Where is the Father?
Edward is a Salesman
Science and Superstition
Chicago, New York 2 Hours
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Chicago, Ill., to King Palace, Ill., for a full-page reproduction of the picture of the child and other rights reserved.)

Elizabeth Smith, aged 18 unmarried, gave birth to her baby, unassisted, and is accused of killing the child to get rid of it. Her neighbors in the Bronx say "she can't come back to live here," all in accordance with tradition.

You wonder is a vague way what became of the father of that baby, and what of her responsibility may be. Also you wonder whether the Bronx neighbors ever read the Blue story about Christ and the woman taken in adultery.

None, in and out of England, critics in King Edward the Eighth matters that would be strictly his business under normal conditions. Britons might better be grateful for exactly the sort of King they need, a first-class salesman. King Edward embodies an old rule that would compel women at his consorts to wear traditional clothing, no more "traditional" kirtle and skirt, of standardized red and green. The lady may select her own gown, with a blouse, for individuality, and profit for dress-makers.

Superstitions are scientific enlightenment travel note by side in newspaper columns. You read 400 Hindu laborers, at great sacrifice and expense, will travel back from Trinidad to India, to alone for their sin against the Hindu religion, committed when they "crossed the black ocean." In a neighboring column, you read that television is near, and a new institution to fight cancer has been opened.

Science gains on superstition. In due time scientists will still be hard at work and no poor Hindu laborers will believe that some queer god with an eye a down arrow and legs is angry at them for leaving the black ocean. Other superstitions nearer home will also be dropped.

Suppose that twenty-five years ago, when the "problem of successful flying" was discussed, some one had predicted, in twenty years, regular commercial airplanes, loaded with passengers, flying from Chicago to New York, 775 miles, in two hours, 30 minutes, 20 seconds. You might have said, "Men will fly, of course, but I advise you not to predict impossibilities."

But that happened this week. When he was starting, Henry Ford predicted that he would eventually build 10,000 automobiles a year. One of the "great automobile companies" protested, saying, "If you talk such nonsense, bankers will lose all confidence in the industry." Since then, the same Henry Ford has made as many as 2,000,000 automobiles a year. Close to 20,000,000 all together.

You cannot easily exaggerate what can be done, by a combination of hard work and imagination. In New York, a thief stole the money box from a Harlem motion picture theater. The thief and the money scattered on the sidewalk. Passersby stole and made off with $125 in bills and small change. The thief, colored, remarked to his captor, "I got competition." Others will wonder what the total number of thieves would be if fear did not restrict.

H. G. Wells, 70, "honored" with the usual dinner, says he is old and it is time to "put away tools because it is bed-time." It is really time for Wells to get to work and do something new. He has no right to talk of bed-time at an age when his work should begin.

A cabbage in tin foil for use at six months, but at that age an oak can scarcely started, and not all men, fortunately, are cabbages. The Duke of Leinster, young, sufficiently good looking, considering that he is a duke, told the bankruptcy judge he owes $700,000, has nothing, and came to America in 1925, "with the idea of marrying somebody rich." Some rich American missed the opportunity to become a powerful father-in-law. The marriage offer disappears the bride, but still the father has his "very good-bye, the duke."

In Germany, the war continues against religious orders, Catholic orders, especially. 600 nuns are deprived of their work in state schools. They will not be permitted to resume teaching unless they resign their orders and pass state teaching examinations. These nuns are not the girls, taught and administered by Catholic nuns, are to be abolished.

Secrecy and Speed To Mark Court Hearing Oct. 29

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, Oct. 15 (INS)—Speed and secrecy will be the watchword at the Ipswich Court of Assizes late this month when the divorce suit of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, close friend of King Edward VIII, comes up for hearing. It was indicated that, and the 300 ladies in the little Suffolk courtroom will be in vacation save for barristers and witnesses.

The hearing, it was expected, would take only a few minutes, as Mrs. Simpson, her husband, and King Edward VIII, all agreed not to defend the suit, and only brief consideration of Mrs. Simpson's charge of unfaithfulness is necessary for the court to grant a preliminary divorce decree.

London newspapers today anticipated any mention of Japan today while their husbands did the housework. The celebration was an annual ceremony during which Japanese men recognized formally the duties their wives must perform on all other days of the year. Husbands scrubbed and washed dishes and did the family wash.

The wives, meanwhile, enjoyed themselves eating and drinking.

Russia Hits Peace Hopes

By the Associated Press
London, Oct. 15—Soviet Russia renewed its heavy pressure to force the Spanish military aid issue today amid gathering, grave perplexities on European seas.

Ambassador Ivan M. Maisky of the Soviet Union and M. Kagan, Russian member of the "Hands-off-Spain" committee, descended again upon Lord Plymouth, harassed secretary of the non-intervention group.

They pressed him a second time to revoke the committee immediately to act on their demand for a virtual blockade of Portuguese ports to stop Spanish arms shipments to Spain after he had once refused the demand.

At the same time the case was given an inconspicuous place by indications that identification of the dismemberment victim as Mrs. Aquila would be challenged.

On that point, however, the British and French officials began immediate conferences over the new Belgian neutrality policy, as announced by King Leopold himself.

This is generally agreed, was the most surprising development in the new Locarno mix-up. Informal sources also predicted that the British and French officials would formally the duties their wives must perform on all other days of the year. Husbands scrubbed and washed dishes and did the family wash.

LATE SPORTS STOCKS CLOSING PRICES

ELLISWORTH, Me., Oct. 15 — A 350-pound black bear, held in a cage as a business attraction at Whistle Inn, a roadside restaurant on the Bangor road, killed two men here today, mangled both of them with his claws.

Those killed were George Langley, 60, married, proprietor of the inn, and his helper, James Burchell, 65.

As Langley entered the cage to feed the bear, the animal suddenly went wild and leaped on him. Langley was knocked down by a blow from one of the huge fore-paws, and then was clawed as he lay on the floor of the cage.

As the bear ripped Langley's shirt to shreds, Burchell seized a shovel and struck, but was himself knocked down and clawed.

SHOOTING ANIMAL
Another bear in a nearby cage, excited by the commotion, was leaping about his cage when Joseph Willette, a neighbor, arrived on the scene with a rifle.

The bear that killed the two men was lying on Burchell's body when Willette fired, killing the animal with a bullet through the head.

George A. Merrill of Bangor, a telephone company employee, who was passing the scene, notified Sheriff Harold Hodgkins. The sheriff responded with two deputies and they killed the other bear with a rifle.

RODENTS MUTATED
Recreation of the bodies of the two men showed that their arms and legs were broken and their bodies severely mutilated.

Langley and Burchell lived at the small roadside inn where the bear was kept, a gas station and a garage. The place has been well known by motorists on the Bangor road for many years. It is situated 10 miles west of this city.

Mrs. Langley was in Bangor, shopping, at the time of the tragedy.

'ANGRY WIFE' NEW GRIEVE IN MURDER

Less than three weeks before Gracie Asquith was supposedly slain and dismembered in her Weymouth cottage she was threatened by a jealous wife who carried a baby in her arms.

She was told: "There'll be trouble for you if you don't leave my husband alone."

Her husband and another man were in an automobile with Mrs. Asquith at the time. There was a bitter quarrel.

The disclosure, hinting that jealousy may have motivated the murder of the "Merry Widow" was made exclusively to the Boston Evening American today by a new mid-western newspaper.

Landon Charges: Farmers Will Pay For Deal Waste

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
Abroad London Sunflower Special, Oct. 15 (INS) —American farmers and workers are cast for the role of "Santa Claus" by the Roosevelt administration. Eventually they must bear the burden of New Deal waste and extravagance.

This was the charge made today by Governor Alfred M. Landon as he carried his presidential campaign into Indiana after tumultuous receptions in Michigan.

The Republican nominee declared the "bonded indebtedness of government is in reality a first mortgage on every farm and home in the nation." In the end, he added, it will be paid off by farmers and workers.

"I am opposed to waste, extravagance and debt," Landon said, "because I am opposed to the ultimate confiscation of farms and homes."

William L. Hutchinson, national head of the carpenters' union and director of the O. P. I. labor division, meanwhile charged the New Deal with using its influence to control internal affairs of labor unions.

MICHIGAN FOR LANDON
He cited the threats against union workers in Chicago that they would be paid off by the New Deal with using its influence to control internal affairs of labor unions.

WALLY Divorce Suit SET

KING'S FRIEND UNOPPOSED

He was the principal in the action listed as "W. Simpson vs. E. Simpson."

IDENTITY UNKNOWN

The co-respondent's identity was not made known, and may not be publicly revealed even in the trial. Simpson, however, told close friends that the divorce is an amicable arrangement, between the parties, and that it was not an intended because the lawyers believed it was best to bring the case in the Province rather than in London.

Were the suit continued, it would be heard in London. Another factor in the Ipswich case, it was understood, is that the co-respondent may be a resident of that district.

The fact that Mrs. Simpson has long been a close friend, companion, and guest of King Edward will not have the slightest bearing on the court action.

LIVING APART

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson have been living apart, since she returned from a cruise about the yacht Nashua in the Mediterranean, when she was among the King's guests in June in the country, but is expected to take up residence in the large house she recently leased at 18 Camberland terrace, in the Regent's Park section. Simpson, a former officer in the Coldstream Guards, is temporarily residing at the Grosvenor Club in London.

Thursday, October 29, is the probable date for the hearing, as the answer was filed at Ipswich two days before that, and a criminal calendar must be heard first. Sir John Agnew-Hoskins of the King's Bench division will probably be the judge.

Both the Simpsons had been married before. She was the former Miss Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, who made her debut here in 1915. She married E. W. Wallis, son of the United States navy, in 1914, and they were divorced six years later.

SIMPSON BRITISH

Simpson, who is 37 years old, is London manager of the New York shipping firm of J. P. Morgan, Spencer, and Young, which was founded by his father. His mother was an American, and she came to New York and attended Harvard University, where she is a British subject.

Wally Simpson acquired British citizenship when Simpson married her in London in 1924.

Mrs. Simpson met Edward when he was Prince of Wales in 1914, through Thomas Lady Purcell, twin of Gloria Vanderbilt. The Prince often attended Mrs. Simpson's parties in London, and since then they have often been together at parties and resorts of Europe.

Simpson also was a friend of the King, and was also involved, it was understood, to sail with the King's party on the Walrus.

Mrs. Simpson was recently mentioned in the official court circular as a member of King Edward's hunting party at Belmont, Cecil in Scotland.

Essayist Wins Harvard Award

James Bryant Conant's prize fellowship policy received another boost this morning when it was announced at Harvard that Fred Whitcomb, Jr., a sophomore Conant fellow from Danville, Ky., had been named to one of the outstanding Freshman awards, the Maxine book prize in History I for last year.

Perla essay, "A Thawed Knife," was a discussion of the history of Germany immediately after the armistice of 1918. The prize is a copy of Samuel Eliot Morison's "The Founding of Harvard College."

This was followed by a lengthy oration on "what Old Man Sunshine has done for us sisters of fame."

Find Woman Guilty Of Tipsy Driving

In spite of her claim that she was only a "sinking spell" as the time she car crashed into a pile in front of Marsh police station, Mrs. Dionne O. Stone, 30, of Gates street, Malden, was found guilty by a jury in Middlesex superior court today on charge of drunkenness and perjury. She was under the influence of liquor.

Judge Thomas H. Dowd placed the drunkenness charge in file and fined Mrs. Stone $100 on the driving charge.

She told the court: "I suddenly felt ill and had a sinking spell. Everything went black and the next thing I knew was that my car was against a pole."

She was arrested June 15 when the crash of her car sent officers of the motor district scurrying out.

Police theorized the knife was kicked up from the street by a fire of a passing automobile.

SIMPSON'S LIFE QUIET AS HARVARD STUDENT Develops Red, White, Blue Corn

The bulk of headlines that surrounded the head of young Ernest Aldrich Simpson of London today, following the revelation that his wife—the King's "friend"—was suing for divorce, had never been overshadowed when he was a Harvard undergraduate.

He was just another student in the Class of '19, and an inconspicuous one at that. Few of those who attended classes with him in 1915-17, can even recall him vaguely.

He was one of the "prep" school group, because he came from Hill school in Polkton, Pa. He lived in New York with his family when he was at Harvard. And the family was wealthy.

But that was about all there was. So far as the Freshman Red Book of his class was concerned, Simpson had just passed his class, had just qualified for any honors, had just particularly shown in anything extra-curricular.

TWO YEARS IN COLLEGE
Reporting himself for the records of his class this year, Simpson put down as his vocation: "Just working."

The Harvard alumni directory shows that he attended the college from 1917. It was in his second year that he left Harvard to sail for England. There he joined up with His Majesty's Foot Guards on August 1, 1918.

Six months later he had won a commission and a transfer to the 1st Coldstream Guards—all of which made him eligible for membership afterwards to the exclusive clubs. Club in London, where he is reported today to have taken up residence.

BUSINESS "SHIPPING"
In the Harvard Alumni Directory his business is given as "shipping," his address as 21 St. Mary's Avenue, London, E. C. 2.

The class records, however, note the Elizabethan court address from which his wife "Wally" moved to her new residence. Simpson's apartment is a new one, Buckingham Palace.

Simpson married Dorothy Parsons Deane of New York city in 1922, and on April 25, 1923, a daughter, Audrey Charlotte Chandler, was born. Two years later, the marriage crashed and ended in the divorce courts. He married Wallis Warfield on July 25, 1928.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE :- By Beatrice Fairfax

Only Thoughtless People Consider Marriage an 'Isle of Refuge'

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There is a widespread notion that marriage is an "isle of refuge" from the storms of life. This is a dangerous illusion. Only thoughtless people consider marriage an "isle of refuge." In reality, marriage is a partnership, a union of two individuals who must face life's challenges together. It is not a避风港, but a journey. Many people enter into marriage without a clear understanding of what it entails, expecting it to solve all their problems. This is a recipe for disappointment. Marriage requires communication, compromise, and a willingness to grow together. It is not a static state, but a dynamic process. Those who view marriage as a避风港 are likely to be disappointed when life's storms inevitably come. Instead, they should view marriage as a partnership where they can support each other through whatever comes their way.

Many people enter into marriage without a clear understanding of what it entails. They see the romantic ideal of love and marriage, but they do not see the practical aspects. They do not consider the need for financial stability, the importance of shared values, or the necessity of open communication. They are blinded by the ideal of marriage as a避风港. When the reality of marriage sets in, they are often left feeling lost and alone. They have entered into a partnership without a solid foundation. This is why it is so important to take the time to truly know each other before entering into marriage. It is not enough to be in love; you must be compatible in all aspects of life. Only then can marriage truly be a partnership that helps you both thrive.

After all these years, and after many disappointments, I can say that marriage is not a避风港. It is a journey, a partnership that requires effort and commitment. It is not a static state, but a dynamic process. Those who view marriage as a避风港 are likely to be disappointed when life's storms inevitably come. Instead, they should view marriage as a partnership where they can support each other through whatever comes their way.

By DONNA GRACE

HOLLYWOOD—Pretty Arline Judge has always been one of our special favorites and enjoys an enviable place on the screen. Now, since her recent success in the new Paramount production, "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie," she is one of the great attractions.

She is one of the prettiest girls in Hollywood and her figure is so perfect that everyone is trying to get her pose for all kinds of things.

She, however, never has any trouble in keeping her figure. She says that it is not a hard task for any woman to keep fit and lovely. She says that she has a secret, and that is to eat right and exercise. She says that she eats a lot of fruits and vegetables, and that she exercises every day. She says that she has a lot of fun in her exercise routine, and that she never feels like she is working. She says that she has a lot of energy, and that she is always ready for anything. She says that she has a lot of friends, and that she is always surrounded by love and support. She says that she has a lot of success, and that she is always achieving her goals. BOSTON FAMILIES CHEER "HOMEMADE" FLAVOR OF A&P BREAD

1 "The marvelous flavor and freshness of A&P Bread made my husband forget the bread his mother made. And it's so economical—I've saved at least $10 this year on bread bills alone."

2 "My husband said the bread I bought seemed too easy, or too stale, or too tasteless. I tried many brands, but the homemade flavor of his mother's bread always stood between us."

3 "Finally, I tried A&P Bread. Well, you should have seen my husband smile when he tasted it. He simply raved about its wonderful freshness and flavor. It actually costs me less money, too!"

4 "Now I never hear him speak of his mother's bread anymore, for we use A&P Bread exclusively for everything it makes—soft, grand sandwiches, and always toasts perfectly."

After all these years, and after many disappointments, I can say that marriage is not a避风港. It is a journey, a partnership that requires effort and commitment. It is not a static state, but a dynamic process. Those who view marriage as a避风港 are likely to be disappointed when life's storms inevitably come. Instead, they should view marriage as a partnership where they can support each other through whatever comes their way.

CRIMSON Hopes Rest on TACKLES

DEFENSE BUILT AROUND PAIR

As Harvard's varsity eleven approaches the eve of its first objective game of the season, it becomes more and more evident that upon two former Greater Boston schoolboy stars rests the Crimson's chance of overcoming Army in the Stadium on Saturday.

For to defeat Army, Harvard must first stop Monk Meyer and to stop Meyer, Harvard must battle up the Cadets' offensive attack.

And Harvard's two best tackles are Alexander and Kasper. Alexander, a senior, is the Crimson's best tackle. Kasper, a junior, is the Crimson's best tackle.

Weak Link

It is believed that the Crimson's weak link is its line. The line is the link between the offense and the defense. If the line is weak, the offense cannot move the ball and the defense cannot stop the offense.

42 Army Players Off for Stadium

The entire "B" team, which is the Harvard team that will play Army, is expected to arrive in Boston on Saturday morning. The "B" team is made up of players who are not on the varsity but who are still in the team.

All told, there are eight thirty-year men rated as regulars on both the "B" and "C" teams. Most of the "C" team men are serving their first season on the varsity squad, and without a single exception they are all of sufficient promise to step into first varsity berths next season.

Concealed Weapons

West Somerville Woman's Tale of Menace Hidden in the Chimney

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Now comes something I want to set straight. MRS. MURPHY, 123 WATERHOUSE STREET, WEST SOMERVILLE, sends me a swell yarn and says: "Please it will never be printed, as so many people have had better experiences and besides, I am not much of a story writer."

Well, sir, I don't want to have people feeling that way. Mrs. Murphy's a lot of people have had better experiences, but I want to print some "aching" experience."

It's a longish yarn, but I'll clean it up for you. It's a yarn, but I'll clean it up for you. It's a yarn, but I'll clean it up for you.

Some people think so, but I don't. I think I'd give the yarn to the world.

After all, it isn't the size of the thing you're fighting, it's the matter of how scared you were while you were fighting it and how you came out of it.

Now, Mrs. Murphy, I'll set you straight. You say you were fighting a big, black, hairy monster that came out of the chimney. Well, sir, I don't want to have people feeling that way.

Floyd Gibbons will pay good money for good TRUE adventure stories. Hundreds of people in Boston and nearby towns have received ten-dollar and hundred-dollar bills for their yarns, and there's no reason why you can't do the same, for, as Floyd says, everybody has had at least one adventure. Fred A. Carlson (127 Beaumont Road, Boston), won one hundred and ten dollars for the story of his life's biggest moment, and you can do the same. For further details, see the box at the right side of the page.

Comerford SAYS PLANT IS Adequate

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Frank D. Comerford, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston and chairman of the board of New England Power Association, does not believe there is any danger of a power shortage in New England.

Writing in the October issue of Industry, published by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, Mr. Comerford points out that the capacity of the New England power plants is sufficient to meet the demand for power in the region.

Mr. Comerford says that the power plants in the New England region are capable of producing 10,000,000 kilowatts of power, which is more than enough to meet the demand for power in the region.

He also points out that the power plants in the New England region are capable of producing 10,000,000 kilowatts of power, which is more than enough to meet the demand for power in the region.

RAIL SHARES IN DEMAND

New York, Oct. 13.—Selected stocks pushed up quietly in today's market, a number to new recovery peaks, as optimistic business prospects attracted renewed interest of speculative and investment groups.

Many of the recent leaders, however, failed to make the grade although extreme selling pressure was lacking in most instances. The trading pace was about equal to that of the preceding session.

European assignments were hardly to the liking of the financial market, but optimism noted as to later inclination on share fronts.

Corporation bonds generally advanced, but optimism noted as to later inclination on share fronts.

Steel, copper, tin and iron and steel shares were active, and movements were among the day's best.

USE OF S. FUNDS TO BURN NEW DEAL

By HAROLD LORD VARNY

An examination of a valuable and ingenious perspective of Roosevelt's accomplishments which Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administration director, has just brought out in this psychological moment of the campaign, under the eye-catching title of "JOBS," confirms our worst suspicions of government propaganda.

No such barefaced attempt to mislead the public mind for the printing of administration paper has ever been witnessed in a presidential contest.

It shows that Hopkins has become in reality if not in name, our American minister of public construction.

For a number of years, S. L. I. has been distributing this expensive pictorial brief for Soviet Russia among millions of Americans.

In terms of typography, its amazing similarity to the official Soviet publication, "U. S. S. R. IN CONSTRUCTION," is almost a faithful replica of this Russian editorial.

Both are actually designed to win admiration for a "regime" by a profane, photographic summary of the public works, agricultural progress and employment in general.

But, whether consciously or not, in entering the field of official propaganda, he is treating the disaster pathway which has been broken before him by the feet of a Goebbels and a Stalin.

36,000 COPIES. It is the fact that the first printing of this pamphlet campaign has been so successful that the government printing office has ordered a second printing of 36,000 copies.

The pamphlet is a masterpiece of propaganda, and it is a pity that the government printing office has not ordered a third printing of 36,000 copies.

5 Bellows Falls CCC Houses Burn

Bellows Falls, Vt., Oct. 15.—A spectacular fire of unknown origin today destroyed five officers' buildings at a CCC camp, in the woods two miles from here, as firemen and rangers stood by helplessly.

With no water supply nearby sufficient to stem the blaze, CCC boys, officials and firemen merely watched as the buildings burned to the ground.

Damage was estimated at several thousands of dollars.
